Report

Name of Activity	Seminar on "Recent Trends in Management for career counselling"
Date	21 st September 2021
Venue	Seminar Hall
Organized by	Department of Management, Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology
No. of Beneficiaries	94 MBA Students
Resource Person	Dr Madhu Arora.
Activity Incharge	Dr. Anju Bala, Assistant Professor, MIMT
Objectives	To explain to the students the most popular recent trends in management. To teach about what are the career prospects in the recent trends of management. To explain to students the latest managerial practices that managers use to effectively manage their employees.
Content	Dr Anju Bala, a faculty member at MIMT, opened the seminar with a welcome address for the resource person, Dr Madhu Arora. Dr Arora explained the current unstable economic environment at the outset of the session and went on to add that change has accelerated dramatically in recent years and has now become a daily reality for businesses and organisations. Organizations must adapt to changing environmental conditions to be competitive and profitable in today's complex and competitive global business world. She expertly explained how the conditions conditioned by the new modern society, which conditioned the birth of new management methods and technologies, often do not meet the approaches that have worked in the past. She outlined the top five managerial trends of late, including headlessdigital transformation, technology, automation, personalization, and tool integration. She stressed how these technologies are altering the corporate landscape and will have a greater impact in the future. In her lecture, she also touched on augmented reality, blockchain, and AI. The resource person also covered the kinds of employment that management students can apply for in various disciplines and how to do so. She cited Harold

	Koontz's statement that management is the art of accomplishing goals through and with members of formally established groups. It is the skill of establishing a setting where individuals may work together to achieve collective objectives. She made the argument that a manager must properly manage the workforce. Recent Trends in Management are management techniques used by managers to improve management and obtain better results. Participants asked the resource person several questions at the end of the session to get answers to their questions about the job profiles in these disciplines. Additionally, Dr Arora advised looking at company websites and employment boards to gain a quick overview of these contemporary trends. Dr Anju Bala, a faculty member at MIMT, gave a vote of gratitude to conclude this meeting.
Outcome of Activity	Students learned the new trends in management. They also acquired knowledge about the job profiles in these fields. Students learned that severe competition is a reality and that to remain competitive and profitable, it is a must to adapt to changing conditions.

	with examples and why it is important to be innovative for an entrepreneur. He explained how innovation is used for cutting the edge in the competitive world. He shared his entrepreneurship journey and the challenges he faced as an entrepreneur and explained how entrepreneurs see a problem as an opportunity for business. He talked about how the design thinking process can help entrepreneurs to get a clear picture of the problem they identified and how to convert that into a viable business idea. Students were made aware of how technical assistance is available for startups from Govt and Private agencies. Activities were conducted to help the participants network with each other and the importance of that was highlighted to the participants. Last but not least he talked about the qualities that are required to be an entrepreneur through various personality traits-based activities. He also gave a lot of examples to support how and where good qualities are very important in sustaining entrepreneurship. In the end, Dr Pooja Goel thanked the esteemed speaker for the exhaustive session.
Outcome of Activity	Students became aware of the importance of innovative ideas and thinking differently from the crowd for becoming successful entrepreneurs. They became sensitized toward the qualities and personality traits required for an entrepreneur. They learnt how the problems and challenges are faced and turned into an opportunity for a successful life. The session inculcated a sense of creativity, innovation and collaboration among the students. assessments and motivation, health and safety, and compensation.

Dr Pooja Goel discussed the career prospects in the field of finance. She explained that Finance covers a lot of ground and includes not only how money is managed but also the process of how funds are acquired. She emphasized that a career in finance requires not only an understanding of accounting principles but also a clear understanding of the best tactics for raising and investing capital. She also talked about a few particular job profiles which are presently in demand in the job market like Financial Analyst, Financial Consultant, Portfolio Manager, Investment Banker, Financial Advisor, Risk Manager, Credit Analyst, and many others. She also discussed that the students who opt for finance specialization get insight into the areas like budgeting, derivatives, tax planning, banking, corporate restructuring, investment analysis, portfolio management, financial markets, and services.

Mr Bharat Gahlot discussed career prospects in the field of operations. He made students understand that Operations Management oversees the entire production timeline of a product or service from the input stage to the finished product, including planning, organizing, directing, and supervising. Citing examples of e-commerce setups such as Amazon or Flipkart, he fluently explained that the operations management team would track the order placed, the payment method selected, and inventory to final shipping, delivery, and customer feedback. He also discussed in detail the career options in the field of operations management like Supply Chain & Logistics Management, Inventory Control Manager, Process Manager, Delivery and Returns Managers etc. Students who will opt for Operations Management specialization will study papers like: supply chain and logistics management, quality toolkit for managers, project management, pricing and revenue management, operations strategy, sales and operations planning, behavioural operations management, operations research applications, management of manufacturing systems, sourcing management, supply chain analytics.

Mr Sushil Kumar Maurya talked about career prospects in the field of international business. With his rich experience, he explained to students that a degree in international business prepares them for a global, diverse career, with opportunities across many sectors and industries. He further emphasized that if students are looking to specialize in international business or hope to join a global company, they should show a clear interest in different cultures and an ability to speak a foreign language would be a great advantage for them. He also discussed some of the important modules of international business such as Principles of International Business, Global Entrepreneurship, Cross-Cultural Management and Transnational Corporations in the World Economy. Students were told about the areas they will be covering such as international marketing management, international trade laws, international labour organization and international labour laws, export & import management, international finance and international HRM.

Ms Anita Ramrakhyani had discussed career prospects in the field of marketing. She introduced marketing to the students by explaining to them that it is an organizational function and a set of processes for creating, planning, implementing, communicating and delivering value to customers and for managing customer relationships in ways that benefit the organization and its stakeholders. She explained that the students who will opt for marketing specialization will get insight into the areas like market research, consumer behaviour, sales management, brand management, social media marketing, retail management, and digital marketing. She effortlessly made students understand with a simple example of a teacher who not only teaches the students but understands student's requirements, creates methods and strategies for passing on information, and tracks student progress through metrics and achievements, in a similar manner, a marketing professional needs to study the customers, has a deep understanding of the methods and strategies that retain and delight them, and be active in measuring achievements and optimizing internal processes.

The exhaustive session came to an end with lots of queries and doubts from the students. Dr Jaspreet Kaur, faculty of MIMT thanked all the resource persons for their valuable time and a knowledgeable and fruitful session

Outcome of Activity	All beneficiaries got a basic understanding of all the specializations in MBA and thus helped students to overcome the confusion regarding choosing a specialization. They also got an insight into the areas they will be studying if they opt for a particular specialization. They learnt about different job profiles available in the market for each specialization.

Content	Department of Management, Mangalmay Institute of Management and Technology, Greater Noida organized a seminar on "Career Prospects in Area of HR, Marketing, Finance, IT &amp; Operations" on 8th January 2021 at 11:00 am for the MBA 2nd year students. The seminar was started by Dr Pooja Goel, faculty of MIMT with a welcome session for all resource persons. The faculties were experts in their respective areas. Dr Poyam Sharma talked about the potential career paths in human resources. According to her, HR is a profession that requires its practitioners to have a high level of interpersonal contact skills as well as honesty, secrecy, and discretion. The success of a business depends on your capacity to support employee growth, organization development, employee retention, and the creation of a stimulating workplace. As a result, she told the students, these are expected of the contributions of HR staff. To build better workplaces for a better society, HR is crucial. She talked about the employment opportunities available to students who choose to specialize in human resources, including recruitment, selection, training, and development, developing roles, assessments and motivation, health and safety, and compensation.

Dr Anju Bala talked about the potential job paths in the financial industry. She clarified that the field of finance is broad and involves both the process of raising money and how it is managed. She underlined that having a solid understanding of the most effective strategies for raising and investing cash is just as important for a career in finance as having a solid grasp of accounting fundamentals. Additionally, she discussed a few specific job descriptions that are in high demand right now on the job market, including financial analyst, financial consultant, portfolio manager, investment banker, financial advisor, risk manager, credit analyst, and many others. She also mentioned that students who want to specialize in finance get knowledge of topics including investment, tax planning, company restructuring, derivatives, and budgeting.

Mr Bharat Gahlot discussed the opportunities for a career in the sector of operations. He helped the students comprehend that operations management includes planning, coordinating, directing, and managing the full production schedule of a product or service from the input stage to the finished output. He skillfully demonstrated how the operations management team would track the order placed, the payment method chosen, and inventory to final shipment, delivery, and customer feedback by using examples of e-commerce setups like Amazon or Flipkart. Furthermore, he went to great lengths regarding the different career paths one can choose in the field of operations management, including supply chain and logistics management, inventory control managers, process managers, delivery and returns managers, etc. Students who choose to specialize in operations management will read papers on supply chains and logistics.

Speaking on potential career paths in the area of international business was Mr. Sushil Maurya. A degree in international business prepares students for a worldwide, broad profession with prospects across numerous sectors and industries, according to his extensive expertise, which he shared with students. He added that it's good for students to demonstrate a clear interest in diverse cultures and that speaking a foreign language would be a big plus for them if they planned to concentrate on international business or hoped to work for a multinational corporation. Additionally, he covered some of the key topics in international business, including Global

	Entrepreneurship, Cross-Cultural Management, and Transnational Corporations in the World Economy courses. Dr Munish Kumar Tiwari had discussed career prospects in the field of marketing. She introduced marketing to the students by explaining that it is an organizational function and a set of processes for creating, planning, implementing, communicating and delivering value to customers and for managing customer relationships in ways that benefit the organization and its stakeholders. She explained that the students who will opt for marketing specialization will get insight into the areas like market research, consumer behaviour, sales management, brand management, social media marketing, retail management, and digital marketing. She effortlessly made students understand with a simple example of a teacher who not only teaches the students but understands student's requirements, creates methods and strategies for passing on information, and tracks student progress through metrics and achievements, in a similar manner, a marketing professional needs to study the customers, has a deep understanding of the methods and strategies that retain and delight them, and be active in measuring achievements and optimizing internal processes. The exhaustive session came to an end with lots of queries and doubts from the students. Dr Pooja Goel, faculty of MIMT thanked all the resource persons for their valuable time and a knowledgeable and fruitful session
Outcome of Activity	All those who participated gained a fundamental understanding of all MBA specializations, which made it easier for students to decide on their area of interest. Additionally, they gained knowledge of the subjects they would be studying if they choose a specific specialization. For each specialization, they learned about the various career profiles that are accessible on the market.

Report

Name of Activity	Workshop on "Future Technology in IT"
Date	23 rd November 2020 from 11:00 am
Mode	Microsoft Teams
Organized by	Department of Management
No. of Beneficiaries	89 MBA students
Resource Person	Ms Meha Mathur, Assistant Professor, MIET.
Activity In-charge	Mr. Bharat Gahlot, Faculty of MIMT
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• To enhance the understanding of the IT subject and its future scope.</li><li>• To have Clarity in ideas.</li></ul>
Report	Mangalmay Institute of Management &amp; Technology organized an online workshop on the "Future of IT" for MBA students on 23rd November 2020 at 11:00 a.m. The resource person for the workshop was Ms Meha Mathur, Assistant Professor, MIET. The resource person started the lecture by introducing that the Covid-19 pandemic has led to an inevitable surge in the use of digital technologies due to social distancing norms and nationwide lockdowns. People and organizations all over the world have had to adjust to new ways of work and life. We explore possible scenarios of the digital surge and the research issues that arise. An increase in digitalization is leading firms and educational institutions to shift to work-from-home (WFH). Blockchain technology will become important and will entail research on design and regulations. Gig workers and the gig economy are likely to increase in scale, raising questions about work allocation, collaboration, motivation, and aspects of work overload and presenteeism. The session was concluded by rendering a thank you note.
Outcome of Activity	Students understand that a pandemic can have severe consequences including changing the political contour of the world, destroying empires, and creating nations. For the Covid-19 pandemic, we envisage a dramatic shift in digital usage with impacts on all aspects of work and life. How this change plays out remains largely dependent on our responses to and shaping of the emerging trends.

Mode	Microsoft Team.
Organized by	Department of Management, Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology
No. of Beneficiaries	85 students
Resource Person	Mr Brijesh Sharma, IT Expert.
Activity In-charge	Dr Mani Jindal, Assistant Professor, MIMT
Objectives	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• To help employers pace up their hiring process easier and more feasible.</li><li>• To verify job applications online then physically scan printed resumes.</li></ul>
Content	The seminar was started by Dr Mani Jindal, faculty of MIMT with the welcome session for the resource person, Mr Brijesh Sharma. Mr Sharma started the session by explaining the current uncertain economic situation. Mr Sharma stressed that according to reports around 40 per cent of the people who lost their job during the Covid-19 pandemic are aged between 15 to 29 years. That means around 27 million people lost their job during this pandemic. The impact of pandemics has been largely seen in tier2 countries. The rising unemployment rates are necessitating the need for jobs and opportunities. Mr Brijesh discussed that market does not stay cold forever, now the businesses are lifting, and so are the number of jobs. With the rising number of jobs, unemployed candidates are making up leeway for assuring opportunities. This gives a significant boost

No. of Beneficiaries	86 MBA Students
Resource Person	Dr Madhu Arora.
Activity In-charge	Dr. Anju Bala, Assistant Professor, MIMT
Objectives	To explain to the students the most popular recent trends in management. To teach about what are the career prospects in the recent trends of management. To explain to the students the latest managerial practices that managers use to effectively manage their employees.
Content	Dr Madhu Arora, the resource person, was welcomed during the opening remarks by Dr Anju Bala, a MIMT faculty member. Dr Arora explained the current unstable economic environment at the outset of the session and went on to describe how change has become a daily reality for businesses and organisations in recent years due to a dramatic acceleration in the velocity of change. Organizations must adapt to changing environmental conditions to be competitive and profitable in today's complex and competitive global business world. She articulately explained how the circumstances conditioned by the new modern society, which conditioned the birth of new management methods and technologies, often do not meet the ways that have worked in the past. She listed the top five current management trends, including Headless technology, digital transformation, technology, automation, personalization, and tool integration. She stressed how these technologies are altering the corporate landscape and will have a greater impact in the future. In her lecture, she also touched on augmented reality, blockchain, and AI. The resource person also covered the kinds of employment that

	management students can apply for in various disciplines and how to do so. She cited Harold Koontz's statement that management is the art of accomplishing goals through and with members of formally established groups. It is the skill of establishing a setting where individuals may work together to achieve collective objectives. She made the argument that a manager must properly manage the workforce. She made the point that a manager must successfully manage the workforce to get better results and that the techniques used by managers to do this are referred to as recent trends in management. This guest lecture had 86 attendees who benefited. Participants asked the resource person several questions at the end of the session to get answers to their questions about the job profiles in these disciplines. To have a quick awareness of these current trends, Dr Arora also advised examining company websites and recruitment portals. Dr Anju Bala, a professor at MIMT, gave a vote of gratitude at the close of the meeting.
Outcome of Activity	Students learned the new trends in management. They also acquired knowledge about the job profiles in these fields. Students learned that severe competition is a reality and that to remain competitive and profitable, it is a must to adapt to changing conditions.

Content	The seminar was started by Dr Pooja Goel, faculty of MIMT with the welcome session for the resource person, Dr Madhu Arora. Dr Arora started the session by explaining the current uncertain economic climate and elaborated that the pace of change has increased significantly in recent years and change has become part of the daily reality of businesses and organizations. In today's complex and competitive global business environment, organizations must adapt to changing environmental conditions to remain competitive and profitable. She fluently described that the approaches that have worked in the past often do not meet the conditions created by the new modern society, which conditioned the emergence of new management methods and tools. She introduced the top five recent trends in management i.e., Headless technology, Automation, Personalization, Tool integration &amp; Digital transformation. She emphasized that these technologies are changing the business environment and in future, their impact is going to increase. She also discussed AI, Blockchain &amp; Augmented reality in her session. The resource person also discussed the types of jobs that are available for

	management students in these fields and how students can apply for the same. She quoted the words of Harold Koontz, that Management is the art of getting things done through and with the people in formally organized groups. It is the art of creating an environment in which people can perform and individuals can cooperate toward the attainment of group goals. She pointed out that as a manager, one has to effectively manage the employees to get better outcomes and the practices implemented by the managers for better management are known as Recent Trends in Management. There were 89 beneficiaries from this seminar. At the end of the session, participants put many queries to the resource person to clear their doubts regarding the job profiles in these fields. Dr Arora also suggested visiting company websites, and job portals to get brief understanding of these recent trends. This session ended with a vote of thanks by Dr Pooja Goel, faculty of MIMT.
Outcome of Activity	Students learned the new trends in management. They also acquired knowledge about the job profiles in these fields. Students learned that severe competition is a reality and that to remain competitive and profitable, it is a must to adapt to changing conditions.

Resource Person	Ms Priya Rajput, an expert from Religare Enterprises Limited.
Activity Incharge	Dr. Poyam Sharma, Assistant Professor, MIMT
Objectives	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• To help companies elevate money.</li><li>• To supply the required capital for companies of a country.</li><li>• To provide a fair, transparent, and efficient securities market to investors using an electronic trading system.</li><li>• To establish a nationwide trading facility for equities and debtinstruments.</li><li>• To ensure equal access to investors all over the country through an appropriate communication network.</li></ul>
Content	The seminar was started by Dr. Poyam Sharma, faculty of MIMT with the welcome session for the resource person, Ms Priya Rajput. Ms Rajput started the session by explaining that We invest in shares to build our wealth in the long run. While some people view shares to be a risky investment, many studies have proved that putting your money in the right shares for a long period (five to 10 years) can provide inflation-beating returns and be a better investment option than real estate and gold. These days people also have short-term strategies while investing in share markets. While shares can be volatile over a short period, investing in the right shares can help traders make quick profits. There were 82 beneficiaries from this seminar. At the end of the session, participants put many queries to the resource person to clear their doubts regarding the job profiles in these fields. Ms Priya

	Rajput also suggested that the key factor is the stock exchange – the basic platform that provides the facilities used to trade company stocks and other securities. A stock may be bought or sold only if it is listed on an exchange. Thus, it is the meeting place of the stock buyers and sellers. India's premier stock exchanges are the Bombay Stock Exchange and the National Stock Exchange. This session ended with a vote of thanks by Dr. Poyam Sharma, faculty of MIMT.
Outcome of Activity	Students learned don't Limit themselves to the Stock Market, to listen to the Bulls and the Bears market, also learn to Love managing Money, and learn From Investors Who Want Them to Succeed.

Report

Name of Activity	Seminar on "Career Prospects in Area of HR, Marketing, Finance, IT and Operations"
Date	7 th February 2020 at 11:00 am
Venue	Seminar Hall, MIMT
Organized by	Department of Management, Mangalmay Institute of Management & Technology
No. of Beneficiaries	74 MBA Students
Resource Person	Dr Shruti Srivastava, Dr Pooja Goel, Mr. Sushil Maurya, faculties MIMT in the field of HR, Finance & Operations.
Activity Incharge	Dr Seema Singh, Faculty, MIMT.
Objectives	To inform the students of the different career paths they can choose from as well as the employment chances and qualifications needed in the fields of HR, marketing, finance, operations, and international business. Students will find it easier to select a specialization for the upcoming semester.
Content	The seminar was started by Ms Seema Singha, faculty of MIMT with a welcome session for all the internal resource persons. Dr Shruti Srivastava talked about the potential career paths in human resources. According to her, HR is a profession that requires its practitioners to have a high level of interpersonal skills as well as honesty, secrecy, and discretion. The success of a business depends on your capacity to support employee growth, organization development, employee retention, and the creation of a stimulating workplace. As a result, she told the students, these are expected of the contributions of HR staff. To build better workplaces for a better society, HR is crucial. She talked about the employment opportunities available to students who choose to specialize in human resources, including recruitment, selection, training, and development, developing roles, assessments and motivation, health and safety, and pay. Dr Pooja Goel talked about the opportunities for a career in finance. She clarified that the field of finance is broad and involves both the process of raising money and how it is managed. She underlined that having a solid grasp of the most effective methods for generating and investing cash is just as important for a career in finance as having a solid grasp of accounting principles. Additionally, she discussed a few specific job descriptions that are in high demand right now on the job market, including financial analyst, financial consultant, portfolio manager, investment banker, financial advisor, risk manager, credit analyst, and many others. She also mentioned that students who want to specialize in finance get knowledge of topics like banking, derivatives, tax planning, and budgeting.

Mr. Sushil Maurya talked about the potential for a career in the field of operations. He helped them comprehend that operations management includes planning, coordinating, directing, and supervising the full production timeline of a good or service from the input stage to the finished good. He skillfully demonstrated how the operations management team would track the order placed, the payment method used, and inventories to final shipment, delivery, and customer feedback by using examples of e-commerce setups like Amazon or Flipkart. Furthermore, he went to great lengths regarding the different career paths one can choose in the field of operations management, including supply chain and logistics management, inventory control managers, process managers, delivery and returns managers, etc. Students who choose to specialize in operations management will read papers on supply chains and logistics.

There were 74 beneficiaries from this seminar. At the end of the session, participants put many queries to the resource person to clear their doubts regarding the job profiles in these fields. The session ended with a vote of thanks by Ms Seema Singh, faculty of MIMT.

Outcome of Activity

All beneficiaries got a basic understanding of all the specializations in MBA and thus helped students to overcome the confusion regarding choosing a specialization. They also got an insight into the areas they will be studying if they opt for a particular specialization.

Objective	To develop all essential entrepreneurial skills to meet entrepreneurial success. Traditional entrepreneurial knowledge learning can no longer meet the dynamic environment's demand for entrepreneurial ability.
Report	Mangalmay Institute of Management &amp; Technology organized two hours Workshop on the "Entrepreneurial Development Program" on 21st September 2018 at 02:00 p.m. in the Seminal Hall of the Institute. The resource person for the guest lecture was Dr K.Veerakumar, the Expert of the session. The resource person started the lecture by addressing being an Entrepreneurial Manager will provide an understanding of issues facing entrepreneurs and exposure to the skills involved in addressing them. Here under the guidance of sir, you can explore how executives should approach making critical decisions during the different phases of an entrepreneurial company's life. Starting from the vantage point of the individual, you will put yourselves in the shoes of decision-makers ranging from technology entrepreneurs to venture capitalists, from real estate developers to inventors. The course will provide insight as to how the interests of other important constituencies— employees, potential and actual investors, business partners, suppliers, and distribution channels—constrain and contribute to an entrepreneur's ability to create value. The session was concluded by rendering a thank you note.
Outcome of Activity	Students came to know about useful guidelines and the Necessary Traits & Skills for Entrepreneurship.

Activity In-charge	Ms Shruti Srivastava, Faculty of MIMT
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• To understand the recent trends and help organizations stay ahead of labour market trends.</li><li>• To quickly adapt to the current environment by being flexible, nimble, and efficient with their hiring processes.</li></ul>
Report	Mangalmay Institute of Management &amp; Technology organized Guest Lecture on the “HR Trends Understanding of Labour Market” on 29th October 2018 at 11:00 a.m. in the Seminar Hall of the Institute. The resource person for the guest lecture was Dr Kalpana Sahoo, the Expert of the session. The resource person started the lecture by explaining the labour market is transforming at an incredible speed and companies have to adapt to new changes. The trend of transitioning to the online format of work is dominating the market. Moving ahead, she explains that these days, the management of many companies encourages employees to take on whatever tasks they can complete. That includes duties that are not included in the job description. During the pandemic, many employees not only took up the challenge but also showed that they can apply their potential in the most unexpected areas. She added previously, HR specialists worked with the staff. But now they tend to focus on helping the company gain the trust of customers and potential employees, too. This sort of approach will see HR getting more involved in strategic planning and market analysis. The session was concluded by rendering a thank you note.

	exception. Work gets hectic, family obligations increase and social activities become unruly. In times like those, it's good to step back and take a deep breath. Dr Juneja added that "Many people forget to make time for themselves, and this is a big mistake," so this one should have time which need not be lengthy—15 or 30 minutes a day—but it should involve doing activities you enjoy: exercising, watching an episode of a favourite TV show, listening to music, taking a walk. The program was concluded and the vote of thanks was given by Ms. Pooja Kapoor, faculty of MIMT.
Outcome of Activity	Students will be able to understand the concept of Time management and will be able to manage their time well is prudent, yet it's also possible for obsessive time management to be counterproductive. Continually searching for ways to use time more effectively can leave children feeling more anxious and stressed. training and development, developing roles, assessments and motivation, health and safety, and pay.

Dr Shweta Kulshrestha talked about the potential career paths in finance. She clarified that the field of finance is broad and involves both the process of raising money and how it is managed. She underlined that having a solid understanding of the most effective strategies for raising and investing cash is just as important for a career in finance as having a solid grasp of accounting fundamentals. Additionally, she discussed a few specific job descriptions that are in high demand right now on the job market, including financial analyst, financial consultant, portfolio manager, investment banker, financial advisor, risk manager, credit analyst, and many others. She also mentioned that students who want to specialise in finance get knowledge in subjects including business restructuring, tax planning, derivatives, budgeting, and banking.

Mr. Rupesh Rao talked about potential careers in the field of operations. She helped the students comprehend that operations management includes planning, coordinating, directing, and managing the full production schedule of a product or service from the input stage to the finished output. She skillfully demonstrated how the operations management team would track the order placed, the payment method used, and inventories to final shipment, delivery, and customer feedback by using examples of e-commerce setups like Amazon or Flipkart. In addition, she went to great lengths regarding the different career paths one may take in the field of operations management, including supply chain and logistics management, inventory control managers, process managers, delivery and returns managers, etc. Students who choose to specialize in operations management will read papers on supply chains and logistics.

Mr. Bharat Gahlot discussed potential career paths in the area of global business. She told the students that education in international business will equip them for a global, varied career with prospects in a variety of sectors and industries. She added that it's advised for students to demonstrate a clear interest in diverse cultures and that speaking a foreign language would be a big plus for them if they planned to specialize in international business or hoped to work for a multinational corporation. She also spoke about several of the key international business courses, including Transnational Corporations

	in the World Economy, Global Entrepreneurship, and Principles of International Business. Ms. Ruchi Rayat had a conversation about potential career paths in marketing. She gave the students an overview of marketing by explaining that it is an organizational function and a collection of procedures for developing, organizing, implementing, communicating, and providing customers with value as well as for managing customer relationships in a way that is advantageous to the organization and its stakeholders. The student who chooses to specialize in marketing will gain knowledge in areas such as market research, consumer behaviour, sales management, brand management, social media marketing, retail management, and digital marketing, she stated. She effortlessly made students understand with a simple example of a teacher who not only teaches the students but understands student's requirements, creates methods and strategies for passing on information, and tracks student progress through metrics and achievements, in a similar manner, a marketing professional needs to study the customers, has a deep understanding of the methods and strategies that retain and delight them, and be active in measuring achievements and optimizing internal processes. The exhaustive session came to an end with lots of queries and doubts from the students. Ms. Ruchi Rayat, faculty of MIMT thanked all the resource persons for their valuable time and a knowledgeable and fruitful session
Outcome of Activity	All students benefited and gained a fundamental understanding of all MBA specializations, which made it easier for students to decide on their areas of interest. Additionally, they gained knowledge of the subjects they would be studying if they choose a specific specialization. For each specialization, they studied the various career profiles that are accessible on the market.

Content	Department of Management, Mangalmay Institute of Management and Technology, Greater Noida organized a seminar on "Career Prospects in Area of HR, Marketing, Finance, IT &amp; Operations" on 23rd March 2018 at 10:00 am for the MBA 2nd year students. There were 56 beneficiaries from this seminar. The seminar was started by Ms. Seema Singh, faculty of MIMT with a welcome session for all resource persons. The faculties were experts in their respective areas. Dr Shruti Srivastava discussed the career prospects in the field of HR. She stated that HR is a professional career that demands integrity, confidentiality and a high level of interpersonal interaction abilities from its practitioners. She explained to the students that your ability to contribute to employee development, organization development, employee retention, and a positive, motivating work environment is critical to business success and consequently, these are expectations of the contributions of HR staff. HR plays a pivotal role in creating better workplaces for a better world. She discussed that students who will opt for HR specialization will have career opportunities in the areas like recruitment, selection, training and development, designing jobs, assessments and motivation, health and safety, and compensation.

Dr Pooja Kapoor discussed the career prospects in the field of finance. She explained that Finance covers a lot of ground and includes not only how money is managed but also the process of how funds are acquired. She emphasized that a career in finance requires not only an understanding of accounting principles but also a clear understanding of the best tactics for raising and investing capital. She also talked about a few particular job profiles which are presently in demand in the job market like Financial Analyst, Financial Consultant, Portfolio Manager, Investment Banker, Financial Advisor, Risk Manager, Credit Analyst and many others. She also discussed that the students who opt for finance specialization get insight into the areas like budgeting, derivatives, tax planning, banking, corporate restructuring, investment analysis and portfolio management, financial markets and services.

Mr Bharat Gahlot discussed career prospects in the field of operations. He made students understand that Operations Management oversees the entire production timeline of a product or service from the input stage to the finished product, including planning, organizing, directing and supervising. Citing examples of e-commerce setups such as Amazon or Flipkart, he fluently explained that the operations management team would track the order placed, the payment method selected, and inventory to final shipping, delivery and customer feedback. He also discussed in detail the career options in the field of operations management like Supply Chain & Logistics Management, Inventory Control Manager, Process Managers, Delivery and Returns Managers etc. Students who will opt for Operations Management specialization will study papers like: supply chain and logistics management, quality toolkit for managers, project management, pricing and revenue management, operations strategy, sales and operations planning, behavioural operations management, operations research applications, management of manufacturing systems, sourcing management, supply chain analytics.

Mr Sushil Kumar Maurya talked about career prospects in the field of international business. With his rich experience, he explained to students that a degree in international business prepares them for a global, diverse career, with opportunities across many sectors and industries. He further emphasized that if students are looking to specialize in international business or hope to join a global company, they should show a clear interest in different cultures and an ability to speak a foreign language would be a great advantage for them. He also discussed some of the important modules of international business such as Principles of International Business, Global Entrepreneurship, Cross-Cultural Management and Transnational Corporations in the World Economy. Students were told about the areas they will be covering such as international marketing management, international trade laws, international labour organization and international labour laws, export & import management, international finance and international HRM.

Ms. Ruchi Rayat had discussed career prospects in the field of marketing. She introduced marketing to the students by explaining to them that it is an organizational function and a set of processes for creating, planning, implementing, communicating and delivering value to customers and for managing customer relationships in ways that benefit the organization and its stakeholders. She explained that the students who will opt for marketing specialization will get insight into the areas like market research, consumer behaviour, sales management, brand management, social media marketing, retail management, and digital marketing. She effortlessly made students understand with a simple example of a teacher who not only teaches the students but understands student's requirements, creates methods and strategies for passing on information, and tracks student progress through metrics and achievements, in a similar manner, a marketing professional needs to study the customers, has a deep understanding of the methods and strategies that retain and delight them, and be active in measuring achievements and optimizing internal processes.

The exhaustive session came to an end with lots of queries and doubts from the students. Ms. Seema Singh, faculty of MIMT thanked all the resource persons for their valuable time and a knowledgeable and fruitful session

Outcome of Activity	All beneficiaries got a basic understanding of all the specializations in MBA and thus helped students to overcome the confusion regarding choosing a specialization. They also got an insight into the areas they will be studying if they opt for a particular specialization. They learnt about different job profiles available in the market for each
